

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

REPORT.

IN presenting our second volume I have again the pleasure of reporting favourably of the prospects of our Society.

Since the appearance of the first list of Subscribers we have lost by death and retirement eleven of our number, but we have gained in their place twenty-two new names, with every probability of further additions.

As to future publications I have to report that Kirkby's Quest for Volume III. is in a forward state, and that materials are practically ready for a second volume on Chantries, and also for one on Parish Accounts of the Pre-Reformation period. Steps are also being taken to produce two Glastonbury Customals and Rentals of the 13th Century, which, taken in connection with that of A.D. 1189 printed by the Roxburghe Club, and Abbot Bere's of the 15th Century, all of them dealing with the same Manors, will supply an unusually complete and instructive series.

These works are in addition to those spoken of in the first Report.

One change has been made. It was found impossible to produce Volume I. in 1886 and Volume II. in 1887. The birth year of the Society, and of the first subscription, has, therefore been post-dated from 1886 to 1887, so that the year of each subscription and the appearance of the volume which depends upon it may coincide, and thereby confusion be avoided.

I may add that we have still in hand some copies of Volume I.

Preface.

OF the two documents now printed, the first—the Survey—may be known to those who have had occasion to work among such records. It is given here as a transcript with all abbreviations, a plan considered the best in such cases, as no question can arise as to any changes or alterations or omissions. Being in English the abbreviations can easily be read, but the following explanations will perhaps be an assistance to some. A straight line, —, above a letter means that one letter immediately following has been omitted. A curved line, ~, above means that more than one letter has been omitted. A line through p means per or par. A curved line through p means pre or pro; and a comma or special mark, ’, between letters in a word means, er, omitted. The termination, e, means es.

The second document—the Rental—the original being in Latin, is entirely unknown, and now appears for the first time. Often mentioned in the Survey its discovery was most fortunate, and we may be especially pleased, as although similar returns must have been made for other counties, this one for Somerset seems to be the only one extant. It is with fair certainty unique; and now by publication safe from accidental destruction.

The question of the purchasing power of money at different times is always a difficult one. Here, as a guide, a difference of twenty times is given: thus a cow, valued in the Survey at ten shillings, or fourteen shillings of the then currency, was in price equal to ten pounds or fourteen pounds in our money of to-day. Some would perhaps think this rather low for the reign of Henry VIII, although good for the time of Elizabeth. The money, it will be noticed, is usually carried out in shillings ; sometimes only, to pounds. The pound here, as a coin, had no existence, it was merely an expression on paper meaning a pound of silver. The silver penny of 240 to the lb. was the actual silver legal basis, the shilling being thus only a token. But curiously it may also be noticed the amounts are usually based on the value of thirteen-and-fourpence, or its sub-divisions, six-and-eightpence and three-and-fourpence. This thirteen-and-fourpence was the marc, yet again there was no such coin as this marc, it too was only a paper expression. The sovereign—sufferen as the patent calls it—was first made in the reign of Henry VII, only just before the time of Henry VIII, and so was hardly in use at the time of our valuation. Coined to represent twenty of the then shillings, it now represents twenty of ours, and has become not only the pound of account, but being the gold legal basis, all other coins are only tokens. Its sub-divisions also have ousted the older ones above named, except in some cases where they are still retained for certain fees.

The Surveys being completed, the next proceeding was the Sale and dispersion of the various properties noted in the Rental, as found recorded in another set of documents known as the "Particulars for Grants." These, with the Foundation Deeds and other annotations, will well make another volume.

Introduction.

AFTER the dissolution of the Monasteries and other larger religious houses and the settlement of the old question of the Supremacy, other questions, also not new, relating to ritual and doctrine, quickly came to the front. As a consequence it was soon foreseen and understood that reform would reach all places however small wherein the old ritual had been used, or where mass had been said. The first public intimation may be discovered in an Act of 1529 (21 Henry VIII,) by which new religious foundations were forbidden, and all gifts to spiritual persons either for their own use, or for life, or for term of years, were declared utterly void. Further, no spiritual person either secular or regular, from the Feast of St. Michael then coming, was to take any particular stipend or salary to sing for any soul; nor take to his use any parsonage or vicarage in farm the lease or grant of any person, upon pain to forfeit forty shillings for every week so doing and to lose ten times the value of any profit received.

Five years later (26 Henry VIII), as "devysed by the advyse of the Counsayle," a survey was made of the true and just yearly value of the ecclesiastical possessions, more particularly, however, of the Cathedrals and parochial churches, and this, as embodied in the return of 27 Henry VIII, is known to us as the Valor Ecclesiasticus. The incumbents or patrons of the smaller foundations, foreseeing their impending doom, now began either to sell their lands, or by granting leases to raise fines which they could appropriate, leaving the future to take care of itself.

Introduction.

10, m. (1) 36 dors.). This, after reciting the above Act, declared it advisable before proceeding with the same, "to have a true and certain certificate made as well of the nombre and names of the said Chauntries and Colleges, &c., as of the qualities, use, abuses, condicions and necessyties concernyng theym." The Commissioners were consequently instructed to examine, search, and enquire what and how many Chantries or Stipendiaries there were, to what purpose they were founded and how and in what manner the revenues or profits were used. Also how far distant any chapel was from the parish church, that it may be determined whether it should stand and remain or be dissolved or reformed. They were also to repair to the houses of the Chantries and find how many since the 4th February, 1536—xxvij of our reign—had been dissolved or by any other means alienated without license. And to "the intent that the plate, yewelles, ornamentes, goodes and chatalles of the said Chauntries, &c., shall not be wasted or otherwyse imbeslyd, but that the same shall remayne to such godly intentes and purposes as we shall hereafter appoynte, Our Wyll and Pleasure is that you shall make seuerall inventories of the same indented between you and the Masters or Incumbentes of the said Chauntries, &c., and thereupon give charge and commaundment in our name that the same be kept and preserved untyl our further pleasure be knowen." One certificate was to be sent to the Court of Augmentation of Crown Revenue,—a Court established to receive and account for the large additional income arising from these proceedings,—there to remain on record. The Commissioners appointed jointly for Somerset and Dorset were:—William, Bishop of Bath; Paul, Bishop of Bristol; Sir Giles Strangewaye, Knt.; Sir John Horsey, Knt.; Thomas Denam, Esquire; Robert Carye, Gent.; and Roger Kentsey, Gent.

Having gone so far, matters were interfered with and stopped for a time by the death of the King. No action was taken under this Commission.

In the first year of Edward VI, 1547, the Parliament passed another

Introduction.

Act, by which again all Chantries and Colleges, &c., were, as before, given to the Crown. The new Act curiously does not mention property as in any way its basis, as in that of Henry VIII, but makes its base the question rather of doctrine, thus well marking the advance in reform, and reflecting the current opinions. "Consydering," says the Act, "that a greate parte of superstition and errors in Christian Religion hath byn brought into the myndes and estimacon by reasone of the ignoraunce of their verie trewe and perfecte salvacon throughe the deathe of Jesus Christ, and by devising and phantasinge vayne opynions of Purgatorye and Masses satisfactorye to be done for them which be departed, the which doctryne and vayn opynion by nothing more is mayntayned and upholden then by the abuse of Trentalles, Chauntries and other provisions made for the contynuaunce of the saide blyndness and ignourance ; and further considering and understanding that the alteracon, change, and amendement of the same and converting to good and godlie uses, as in erecting of Gramar Scoles to the educacon of youthe in vertewe and godlinesse, the further augmenting of the Universities and better provision for the poore and nedye, can not ne ought to anny other manner parsonne be comited then to the King's Highness : It is now ordeyned and enacted that all manner of Colleges, Free Chappelles and Chauntries, having being within five yeres next before the firste day of this present parliament (i.e., 4 Nov., 1547) which were not in actuall and reall possession of the late King, &c., shall, imediately after the feast of Easter next cominge be adjudged and deemed and allso be in the verie actuall and reall possession and seaisin of the King our Sovereigne Lord and his heirs and successors." Other clauses gave to the King all lands, rents, &c., appointed to be employed wholly to the finding or maintenance of any Obit or Anniversary or other like purpose ; or of any Light or Lamp in any church or chapel to have continuance for ever which had been kept or maintained within five years before ; and all lands given to any such use for a specified term only were to go to the King for the remainder of such term. It was also enacted that from the same date all Brotherhoods, Fraternities and Guilds, and all lands belonging to them, and all goods, plate and moveables belonging, "abused of any of the said coporacions in the abuses aforesaide" should also be vested in the Crown, and power was given to the King at any time to alter the nature or condition of any such Obits, &c., not suppressed, "ne adnichilate," by this Act and to dispose of the same to better uses, such as the relief of poor students in the Universities or otherwise. Any person who had sold away any lands which should have been vested in the Crown under this Act was to repay the purchase money.

Introduction.

Next a Survey was ordered—for the purpose of enquiring into the revenues of such Chantries and Chapels ; to assign lands applicable to Grammar Schools ; to endow vicars ; to assign maintenance for an additional priest in such great towns or parishes where such should be thought necessary ; to assign pensions to priests or poor persons dependent on these dissolved Colleges, &c., such pension not to exceed one annual income ; to enquire as to allowances to the poor and make arrangements for payment thereof ; and finally, where necessary, to apply rents towards the maintenance of banks and sea-walls. Certificate was to be made of what was done, to be returned within a year. A Royal Commission duly followed on the 13th February, 1548. (Pat: 2 Ed. VI, pt. 7, m. 32 (13) dors.). After setting out the Act, and "myndyng truly, playnly, and certeynly to be enformed of all thynges gevyn vnto us by the saide Acte," Commissioners were appointed, with authority—or any two of them—"to enqyre, survey, and examyn as well by the othes of such persons as you shall thynke convenyent or otherwyse by your wysdomes and discretions what Colleges, Chauntries, Freechappels, Brotherheddes, Fraternities, and Guyldes, Manours, landes, tenementes, hereditamentes and other thynges, ought to come to us by vertue of the saide Acte, and also the foundations, usages, contynuances, vses, qualities, values, condicions, and state, in euery degre of the same and euery of them." All Mayors, Bailiffs, Constables, and other Officers and subjects were to aid and assist in the execution of the enquiries as the case should require: and finally, of their "doyniges and procedyniges" the Commissioners, or any two of them, were to certify before the last day of May.

The Commissioners for Somerset and Dorset were:—Thomas Speke, Hugh Poulett, John Rogers, John Seyntlow, and Thomas Dyer, knights; William Moryce, George Lyne, Robert Keylway, and Robert Metcalf, esquires; John Hannan and William Hartegyll, gentlemen. It was through these Commissioners that the Survey and Rental were made and the Certificates of value returned as now herewith printed.

Before proceeding to specially examine these documents, perhaps some notes objective and explanatory may be desirable.

Chantries.

A CHANTRY chapel was usually situate either within a church or in some small, specially built, projecting addition to the building, generally over the vault or near the tomb of the endowing Family; sometimes it was in the churchyard, probably over a burying place of the Founder; sometimes it was at some distance from the church. Chantries were of two kinds, endowed and unendowed, and were established for the maintenance of one or more priests to say a daily mass for the good estate of the founder during life and for the benefit of his soul after death. For the Endowed or Foundation Chantry when endowed with lands, the Crown license was necessary under the Statute of Mortmain, 7 Ed. I; consequently the date of such Foundation can be generally traced. The Chaplain was duly presented by the patron as to an advowson and thus came under the jurisdiction of the Bishop.

The unendowed Chantry was either established for a term of years or existed upon uncertain offerings, these diminishing as the family grief softened until the Chantry disappeared. The priest, called or known as a stipendiary, being nominated by the patron, could be removed by him ; thus the position was lower than in the beneficed or endowed Chantry. Another form of endowment was to pay down a sum of money to a large religious house or monastery, when a deed was exchanged by which a promise was given to celebrate daily or otherwise either for ever or for a fixed term.

Curiously the advowson of a Chantry could be sold, thus a stranger to the family would appoint the priest who would specially represent his patron, the original founder perhaps being forgotten (Archæologia, V, 38).

Colleges.

COLLEGES originated as large Foundation Chantries, the endowment being sufficient for usually three or more secular priests who resided together, one being chosen chief, alternately officiating for the benefit of the founder, and perhaps adding other duties such as education or assisting in the mother church. Colleges sometimes became Corporations having a common seal as in the case of North Cadbury, where can be detected the beginning of what might have been a much larger institution. The chance, however, seems to have slipped away before the time of the Survey.

Free Chapels.

FREE CHAPELS were as a rule presumably at some time part of a royal demesne, and thus at first were the King's private property, but being built at some distance from the parish church they came into use for the purpose of easing the dwellers near them from a difficult journey. They have been defined as Free, because—unlike the attached Chantry Chapel—they were entirely detached and free from any other structure, but this was not so. They were free as being exempt from all episcopal jurisdiction, the incumbent being appointed by the patron as if he were a private chaplain, the bishop having no power to refuse institution. Nevertheless by some means, in some cases the incumbents became subject to the bishop, and consequently the exact position of any particular chapel can only be learned from its own special history. They had often the right of burial. The Act of Edward VI provided that nothing therein should extend to any such chapel, nor to any chapel having no more lands than the chapel yard or a little house attached. The first clause refers rather to those larger structures, which built in all respects as churches, were later converted to parochial use, as we see them to-day. The second clause should have saved some small buildings placed in difficult districts or amidst a scattered population. A near case of destruction may be noted under Huish and Langport, where the Surveyor recommends that one of these churches could well be spared and taken down, as they stand within a bird bolt of each other.

Introduction.

Obits.

OBITS were kept yearly to commemorate the death of the Founder, when the office for the dead was performed, alms distributed, and other services held for the soul of the departed. As being rather of a private character the service was usually at a side altar, the cantarist being served by one boy only. An Obit service was held according to the foundation either for a term or for ever, or by request of executors or others of the family for as long as their special payment continued. Monasteries obtained many grants and bequests for the purpose of inscribing the names of the givers on their roll to be thus prayed for annually. Purchase of this privilege was often made during life, when a formal deed or undertaking was exchanged, of which the following may be accepted as the usual form:—To all the childer of our Moder hooly church these present letters indentyd hereafter to see or here . . . Prior, &c., of the House of the Order of . . . sends gretyng and continuacion and augmentacion of hevynly grace. Introduction.

We shall also make the same Day of his decesse yerely his Obett in our Church, with solempe Dirige of our Breder for evermore to be doon; and in the morrow then folowing with Messe of Requiem. Also we bynde us to sing a Trentall of messes yerely by such dayes immediately folowing the said Obett as it may be conveniently doon for ever more. Admittynge the said . . . now as thenne and for evermore to be full and special partaker of all messes, prayers, fastyngs, devociions, and of all other Spiritual suffrages for evermore within our House, God disposing to be doon, &c.

Anniversaries.

ANNIVERSARIES, sometimes called Year Days, were, like Obits yearly commemorations of the death of the Founder but apparently on a larger scale, the payment being heavier, the alms much more liberal, and the assembly consequently much larger. The service might be held at the high altar, if with Requiem and Dirige the former was sung in the forenoon, the latter in the afternoon. Sometimes as with Obits the legacy was for a limited term, or one or more years.

Trentalls.

TRENTALLS were thirty masses for the dead said daily on thirty consecutive days.

All these endowments for prayers may be considered to include always besides the Founder, his other special friends or near relations alive and dead, and "all the faithful deceased."

Introduction.

Guilds.

GUILDS or Gilds were associations or Fraternities wherein every member paid towards the general charges. Some were religious, others not so; some admitted women, others men only. Their intention was to promote goodwill, and assist the sick much or exactly as do their successors, our village clubs of to-day. Above all other duties they secured masses and prayers for the souls of their Brethren after death, and especially too the attendance of the Members at any funeral, by which means their prayers were then obtained. Except for such a form of combination the poorer class must have gone without any expiatory service; with others who could pay, this difficulty could not exist, and with the wealthy matters were entirely the other way, as it is on record that one founder had seven or eight priests singing in different chapels perpetually for him.

Lights.

LIGHTS were placed before images in the supposition that the saint represented would be pleased with the attention, and so would use his or her intercession for the benefit of the giver.

Lamps.

LAMPS perhaps were rather more important than Lights, and were placed before a principal image or in the chancel. Fortunately the record at Ilminster explains exactly the intention of a Lamp in the chancel there, as burning to the honour and glory of Almighty God and the holy body of Christ.

Of the cows, cattle and sheep given for these Lights there is no further record. They were probably secured by the parochial Vestries. The small rentals were demanded by the collectors at their first audit, and were in some cases paid, as duly entered in the "Minister's Accounts." In some instances the Churchwardens either refused payment or evaded it on some pretence, and in others these charges were claimed as having passed with the purchase of the land. Where not otherwise accounted for they presumably were allowed to lapse, and so disappeared.

Introduction.

Oratories.

ORATORIES were either chambers within a house licensed for a term in cases of sickness or of age, or small domestic chapels attached to the manor Court when this was distant from the parish church. They were to be used only by the family or the household, it being always carefully provided, as in the case of all Chantries or Free Chapels, that nothing should be done therein to the detriment or loss of the rector or vicar and that at Easter and other great Festivals the parish church should be attended and all dues paid. In 1327 Baldwin Malet, Knt., and his wife were granted the privilege of an Oratory "anywhere" in the diocese until the Feast of St. John Baptist. In such a case the super altar, which was always duly consecrated, was a small stone of portable size and so easily carried from place to place. No priest could officiate without this consecrated stone. An instance of disobedience is met with in 1317, when the rector of Weston in Gordano was excommunicated for so doing (Drokensford's Register (Hobhouse), p. 128).

As these Oratories had no endowments they are not noticed in the Survey, save an occasional exception where the domestic Chapel had become of more importance than usual.

The Survey.

Glancing now at the Survey for a short analysis, it will be seen that the Rental differs from it somewhat, as the latter notices only land endowments, not gifts in money, cattle, or rent charges, consequently the two together are necessary to show the whole. Even then there were other Foundations omitted by both, these remaining yet to be noticed. The omissions arose from the properties belonging being concealed from the Surveyors with the intent of being privately appropriated.

Introduction.

During the passing of the before noticed changes, Acts, and Orders, the condition of the Chantries seems to have fallen very low; "slackly" attended, they had been clearly much neglected. Several are found returned as void of incumbent, and others on the recent death of the incumbent remained void. Taking a few others as examples:—

Aileston Sutton.—Chapel was utterly decayed.

Aller.—The money for wax had been withheld three years.

Ashbrittle.—The rent was withheld.

Ashton, Long—in Merriattes Chapel.—From a rental of £4 18s. per annum, twelve pence weekly only was given to the Vicar.

Babcary.—Fodington Chapel had fallen down, clearly decayed.

Batheaston.—The Hermitage Chapel had been occupied for seven years without payment.

Cadbury, North.—The rental retained for seven years.

Charlton Adam.—No mass there for twenty or thirty years. The incumbent however received his salary.

Congresbury.—St. Michael's Chapel in the churchyard was in decay, and used for storing lime and other things. The parishioners offered to buy it.

Hydall in Clevedon.—No incumbent since 26 Henry VIII.

Langford.—No light for ten years.

Longlode.—Stipend withdrawn for seven years.

Milverton.—The inhabitants offered to buy the chapel to use the lead for water pipes.

Pennard, East.—Three years before the Survey the chapel premises were entered and the priest dispossessed.

Poulet.—Money withheld for four years.

Petheron, North.—Rental withheld two years.

Wiveliscombe.—Rent withheld for three years. The chapel used as a store. No mass for eight years.

Introduction.

Wraxall.—The Chantry rent due from the parsonage had been withheld six or seven years.

Winford.—The chapel had been bought by the parishioners nine years before.

Yatton.—The parishioners wished to buy the Old Chapel to make a sluice against the rage of the sea.

Notwithstanding the order against new endowments, bequests for a Stipendiary were made at Bageworth and Wedmore so late as 1 Edward VI, so that on the appearance of the Surveyors only three-quarters of the first year had been received ; the balance was scored down as due to the general account.

The only recorded case of contumacy is at Bath, where the Master of St. John's Hospital would not appear.

The Rental.

The Rental speaks for itself, and is of interest as showing the prices then obtained. That the monastic houses had gathered large manorial estates and lands in almost every parish is well known, although their value and extent are barely realised ; this Return now shows further, for the first time, how firm and deep the grasp was on every class of property.

Plate.

Taking next the plate ; thirty-eight Chantries are returned as having none. In some of these cases there may never have been any, the church chalice, &c., serving the purpose ; and sometimes one set served for more than one endowment. The three Chantries in Frome had but one chalice to all the three, and this one the precentors said was stolen. This is the only record of implied dishonesty. In some cases the patron claimed and kept these things as private property.

Against the thirty-eight vacancies, some being easily accounted for, there are a hundred and eighteen returned with chalices

Introduction.

complete. What became of these is not exactly known, but having been once entered as part of the properties, it must be assumed they were gathered in and sent to London, to disappear in augmentation of the revenue. Unfortunately there seems to be no return extant of the "silver delivered in" from Somerset. The weights were evidently carefully taken, the chalice in Bishop Bubwith's Chantry being entered at $12\frac{1}{4}$ oz. and $\frac{1}{2}$ a quarter, or $12\frac{3}{8}$ oz. The lightest was 5 oz. at North Curry, the heaviest one of the two at Croscombe, 26 oz. all gilt. Mark came near this with one of 23 oz. Martock was content with one of tin; the only example. In Taunton chalices were numerous, four of the Chantries having two each, and the other six having one each. Ilminster takes the lead in value, having three chalices, weight not given; a silver gilt cross of 120 oz.; a ship with two stones of crystal; and two cruets and two candlesticks parcel gilt, 89 oz. At Nyned Flory both plate and ornaments were given as a foundation for prayers.

Ornaments.

The ornaments, not generally of much value, were either sold or disappeared locally.

What was included in this term may be seen under Ilminster and Moorlinch and from the following sale, the only one recorded:—

"Parcell of thornamentes belonging to the late colleges and chauntrys, free chapelles, &c., within the Countie of Somerset, viz. :— Five vestmentes of crymson vellat priced and estemed at vs. le pece are worth one with another — xxvs.

"Fowre deacons and sub-deacons of the same color presed at vs. le pece — xxs.

"Seven vestmentes of blew and purple veluet preised at iiij*s*. viij*d*. le pece — xxxi*s*. viij*d*.

"One olde cope of clothe of gold flowred with blew veluet — xii*s*. iiij*d*.

"One cope of crimson vellat with flowers of gold — xs.

Introduction.

“ Two other copes, one of blew veluet another of murrey veluet preised at vjs. viij*d.* le pece.— xiijs. iiij*d.*

On the 16th February, 3 Ed. VI, these were sold to Robert Freeke, servant of Robert Keilway, Esq., for the sum of cxvs., “ to be paid all in hand ” (Chapter House Books, A $\frac{5}{12}$, p. 102).

Lead and Bells.

The lead and bell metal, weighing together 3,647 lbs., were sold 16 March, 3 Ed. VI, to Lawrence Hide, servant to Sir John Thynne, for the sum of £ 128 10s. (Chapter House Books, A $\frac{5}{12}$, fol. 162*e*).

The Chaplains.

The Chaplains were clearly not of the highest merit, yet the general description “ of honest conversation but indifferently learned ” has a satisfactory sound, reads as being quite genuine, and fairly meets the case. There are two examples of a custom of the time, when at Yatton the incumbent of Clareham is returned as a scholar eighteen years of age ; and again at Portbury where the incumbent was a scholar at Oxford. Three—Blackford, Bedminster, and Frome—are returned as gentlemen.

Taking Taunton as being the largest town, its ten Chantries had ten chaplains, the largest income being from St. Nicholas with £ 16 8s. 4*d.* No exactness can be absolutely attained, but this sum may for general guidance be said to have been equal to twenty times that amount now, or £ 320. The total of the ten Chantries—£ 83 13s. 4*d.*
—would thus be now, say £ 1,673, this being produced from a hundred and fifty-four small holdings in the best and most frequented parts of the town.

Communicants.

In some places the number of the Communicants—Partakers of the Lord's Supper—is given. In Taunton the number was three thousand : that is, there were three thousand persons young and old qualified to communicate. Modern surroundings and modern ideas must be forgotten here and it must be remembered, that at this time, as for long afterwards, the old notion of a religious uniformity was retained as a leading imperative idea. There was no option on such a question ; no liberty of opinion was allowed ; there was no other church or resource for the purpose. These Communicants then were all the inhabitants of all classes above say fourteen years old. Of these three thousand, one-third would be the young and adult, leaving two thousand parents ; or one thousand as the entire number of householders. Although not quite pertinent, to make all clearer it may be added that for the purpose of a full census, besides the one child or adult as above over fourteen, there would be on an average to each couple of parents two other children under that age, thus making the population of the parishes of St. Mary and St. James five thousand all told. A large proportion of these would be, as always, of the labouring class or the poorer class below it ; the tradesmen too would be but small, not in any way wealthy. Remembering then their surroundings, their very small requirements, their free rental, fixed incomes, and entire absence of anxiety, the position of the Chaplains must have been a very comfortable one. It may be noted that the Communicants are now "Partakers of the Lord's Supper," the mass had ceased, the new order just commenced.

Introduction.

With this change another custom specially connected with the present subject also disappeared. A letter from the Royal Commissioners, now in the Wells MSS., addressed to the Chapter and all Churchwardens, requested them "to abstain from such unmeasurable ringing for ded persons at their buriall and at the Feast of All Soules. And that from hencefurthe they use to ringe oon bell at such tyme as sicke persones lyeth in extreme daunger of death that they which be haile may be put in remembrance of their owne mortalitie and also excited to praie unto God for soche their sicke neighbours, that they may pacientlie suffre death if God send it and the hard panges thereof for Christes love, who suffred much more for them, and that they may so departe out of this life in true faithe, hope, and charitie, as their sowles may be afterward receaved unto eternale felicitie to raigne with Christ everlastinglie in the Kingdom of Heaven. And when the corps of any such dead person shall be brought to the Church to be buried then to ring also moderatlie in the time of the obsequies thereof and no longer."

Introduction.

At Michaelmas when the Collectors came for the rentals, they found that all had been duly paid on the one side, and received by the other up to Easter, consequently all dues up to that time were "Forgiven." Thus at Easter, 1548, the Chaplains quietly glided out and these Chantries as quietly expired.

Pensions.

The Chaplains received pensions varying in amount according to the original stipend, occasionally almost equalling but never exceeding it. The following list gives the names of the pensioners and the amounts of their pensions, the authorities being Cardinal Pole's Pension Book (Excheq: Q.R., Miscellaneous Books, No. 32) and Willis, "History of Abbies" (V. vij, 201-203).

There appears also in Pole's List William Baylie with a pension of £4 13s. 4d. but without a local habitation. This must be John Baylie, found in Willis's List serving in Shepton Mallet church, who is not otherwise noticed. Of the Chaplains residing in La Mountroy John Dible, as Chaplain to the Hospital and to Martyn's Chantry, seems to have secured a double pension. This return certainly shows a liberal intention, the amounts being high, and even the incumbents at Yatton and Portbury, one a scholar aged 18, the other a scholar at Oxford, receiving their share. Some errors occur in the list. Thus the names Spyce and Bryce are misplaced, Spyce belonging to Combflory, the other to Compton Pauncefoot. Mathew Broke here under Ilminster should be at South Petherton, and Wm.

Introduction.

Culverwell belongs to West Buckland, not West Monkton. The Incumbents at North Cadbury and Dunster are not named in the Survey. After the pension was granted it appeared that Richard Ilonde was not the right man for East Horrington, and from M'vas 4 Ed. VI, John More was substituted. The document says:—"Memorand: One Richard Eyland was first certefied to be Incumbent there, whereuppon a pencion of cs. yerlie was to hym graunted. Butt forasmuche as uppon further examinacon it is proved not to be so, and that the abovenamed John More is trewe Incumbent of the said chapell of Est Horrington, as by a comission certefied into the courte M'vas Term 3 Ed. VI, it may appear, the letters patent made to the said Richard Eyland is surrendered and delyvered into the Courte of Augmentacons. Therefore made a patent for the said John More accordingly." The patent is then set out, dated in February, 5 Ed. VI. (Miscellaneous Books, Augment. Office, Vol. 247, fol. 6).

Cardinal Pole's List was not made until 1553, so that death may account for some names omitted, as the interval of time may be allowed to account for the other trifling errors.
